Dear Mr. Casey,

One of the distinguished authors in LEADERS Magazine, Sheila Kurtz, founder and president of A New Slant, Inc., is the foremost graphoanalyst in the United States. She has established a corporate clientele internationally and has garnered a solid base of Fortune 500 companies because her programs save money in salary and training costs.

She has concentrated almost exclusively on personality assessment as a tool for business in their personnel decisions, compatibility evaluations and executive outplacement.

Graphology gives nondiscriminatory and current insight into an individual's basic character. The analysis is structured to give the businessman an immediately applicable and pragmatic evaluation, an executive management practice in reduced employee turn-over and maximum employee satisfaction.

Graphology and graphotherapy offer an array of applications; the traits which are detected through graphoanalysis include stress-response, emotional structure, thinking patterns, specific aptitudes, resistance traits, fears and a myriad of inhibiting/intensifying influences that are evaluated to determine and predict a person's probable response to given circumstances.

I need your advice as to who within your organization Ms. Kurtz may contact in order to present her program.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Cordially,

JOHN STEVENS
